- Break confidentiality of discussions with employees.

How Our Chaplain Service Will Help You

- Chaplains will make a brief visit to the worksite regularly to interact with individuals to build a relationship of trust and friendship.
- Upon request, Chaplains will visit your home, hospital, nursing home, funeral home or jail.
- A Chaplain will meet you at a neutral site, away from the work place, to confidentially discuss issues important to you, such as your marriage concerns, serious illness, death, stress, financial concerns or anything else you would like to talk about.
- If you or a family member wants to get married, a Chaplain will help you plan and prepare for a wedding and perform the ceremony, if requested.
- If there is a death in your family, a Chaplain will help with planning and officiating the service or in any way you desire. At your request, Chaplains will provide grief and recovery guidance as you and your family adjust after the loss of a loved one.
- A Chaplain will assist in notifying families of employees killed or injured in a job-related accident or those who die of natural causes while on the job, according to the company need.
